

HOW TO WRITE A BEST SELLER!

HOW TO WRITE A BEST SELLER....

This week's Super Curriculum theme is an encouragement for you to use your voices. Everyone has a voice in them but when they try to write it can get really, really complicated to say what you want to say.

With some help from some top tips and some expert instructions, we should get you going...

There are a million different resources out there to help you get started. We like this one...

THE RULE OF ONE?

Short stories are short and sweet. The more you include, the messier they get.

Stick to the rule of one:

- One main character - place most of the focus on them.
- One setting/scene – jumping around is tough to write well
- One major conflict/problem to solve
- One theme/message

HOW DO YOU GET STARTED? BY ENDING.

Plenty of writers start a great story, not all can finish it.

Plotting your story, especially how it ends, is one of the most important parts of writing.

DON'T START UNTIL YOU KNOW THE ENDING!

There are plenty of online resources to help you plot out a story. Here's a few on us:

WHAT STORIES DID YOU LIKE WHEN YOU WERE YOUNGER?

TASK

- Make a list of the stories that you really liked when you were younger. What about 'The Gruffalo' (one of my favourites) or stories about Mog the cat?
- Why do you think you liked these stories so much?
- Are there elements of these stories that you would like to use in your own story?
- What is anthropomorphism? Could this concept be of any use to you?

COMPETITION TIME!
