Why Choose English Literature?

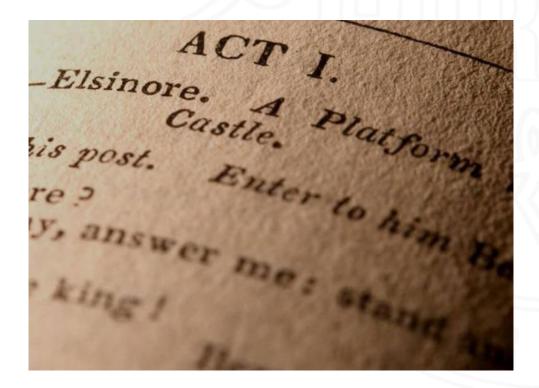

The English Literature A Level specification encourages students to develop interest in and enjoyment of English Literature, through reading widely, critically and independently, across centuries, genre and gender, and through experience of an extensive range of views about texts and how to read them.

The new specification offers

- Emphasis on the development of the informed, independent reader of literary texts through a course of wide and close reading;
- centrality of the prepared text as the test of the candidate's ability to synthesise the key knowledge, understanding and skills of the course;
- linking, connecting and comparing a range of whole texts and extracts.

This subject makes a great A Level choice

It is particularly suitable for those students who wish to study English Literature in higher education or for students wishing to pursue a career in publishing, law, advertising, journalism or teaching. English Literature builds both your analytical and inter-personal skills. It is a rigorous, academic subject and highly respected by universities. English Literature complements a wide range of subject combinations and is widely recognised as a facilitating subject.
